Editorial Review

From School Library Journal

Grade 4-7 This collection of questions that stimulate thinking is a combination joke book, logic book and puzzle book. Divided into six chapters, the questions are logically arranged so that children can easily locate the kinds of problems they enjoy. A final chapter provides the answers. While some of the "trivia" type questions may be too hard for many, trivia buffs will enjoy learning some new tidbits. The verbal questions that rely on word plays are particularly entertaining and sure to tickle many students. Many of the logic problems will sound familiar to those who have used other logic books, but the popularity of this kind of book will make it a valuable addition to any library collection. Black-and-white drawings are merely decorative. Susan H. Williamson, Saltsburg Junior/Senior High School, Pa.

From the Back Cover

Put your brain in high gear with tricky teasers verbal vagaries, and mathematical mind-manglers. Then take a break with jolly 'brain vacation' jokes. This irrepressibly zany book will entertain and inform both real wits and 'halt-wits, ' with a word to the wise and few words for you, too!

About the Author

Louis Phillips was born in Lowell, Massachusetts, on June 15, 1942. He started writing at age 6 on his father's Smith-Corona typewriter and he has been typing, hunting and pecking, scribbling, computer entering, saving, deleting, filling up spiral notebooks, file folders, manuscript boxes, and two large lockers of manuscripts. He has written plays, short-stories, poems, humor pieces, and ransom notes. In addition, he may be one of the world's record holders for collecting rejection slips.
