The Other Woman (Dundee, Idaho, Book 7) By Brenda Novak

[Read by Tara Sands]

Elizabeth O'Connell has survived one of the worst betrayals a wife can imagine. Finding out that she wasn't the only woman in her husband's life meant the end of her marriage and a year of personal hell. Now she's focusing on her new business and raising her two kids. Carter Hudson isn't part of her plan. When he's introduced to Liz by well-meaning friends, her dislike is instant. But as she spends time with him, Liz realizes she likes having Carter in her life - - more than likes it. However, Carter has secrets in his past that he can't seem to escape, secrets that apparently involve a woman. Liz is sure of one thing - - she'll never be "the other woman"• again!

Editorial Review

From Booklist

Elizabeth O'Connell did not have the best luck when it came to men. Nearly two years ago, Elizabeth ended her marriage when she discovered that her husband was already married. Now all Elizabeth wants to do is concentrate on her new business, but when her friend Senator Garth Holbrook offers to set Elizabeth up with his new political aide, Carter Hudson, Elizabeth reluctantly agrees. It only takes a few minutes with the bluntly and annoyingly honest Carter for Elizabeth to decide the two of them would never work out. Elizabeth then finds herself revising her opinion of Carter when he agrees to help with the renovations to her chocolate shop, but a mystery woman in Carter's past threatens to ruin any chance of romance. Novak continues her loosely connected series set in Dundee, Idaho, with this emotionally intense story of one woman starting over again. Complex, realistically flawed characters and a love story with a dash of danger are beautifully blended in this excellent contemporary romance. John Charles
